Justin, if you're thinking about the rings, some solids, textures, or shape layers with radial gradients and luma masking would be a great start. About five or six years ago... If you want more advanced tutorial on professional software, there are some. How did you create the ring around the planet? I never tested it outside of HD, but given my experience with its close relative, Element, I'd say you're running out of memory on your GPU. And it takes a lot higher values than the ones used in the tutorial to even be able to see it at all. I currently experinencethemysticalorbdisappearingintoanotherdimension watched for about another ten minutes and was ready to crawl in the back of my truck and go to bed.
