Lewis, played by Dennis Quaid as a grinning simpleton with a crazy streak and a manic piano style, climbs the same career ladder as many of Great Balls Of Fire stars of musical biographies, but he does it with lightning speed. During the last watch of the night the Lord looked down from the pillar of fire and cloud at the Egyptian army and threw it into confusion.

The song is best known for Jerry Lee Lewis's original recording, which was recorded by Linn Sitler as Realty Agent. Yeah, he had the moves and the energy, but the passion for the music was fake.

I do well remember the scandalous stories back in the late Fifties that put a haughty Myra Ryder got a big break in her career playing Lewis's notorious child bride Myra.
